

All Votes Must Be Cast Before Eight O'clock

Raymie Curtis and E. G. Abbott Ap- pointed Judges of Contest For Queen of Style Show--Strenuous Campaign Will Close Tonight-- Votes Counted At Once.

Raymie Curtis, expert accountant and E. G. Abbott, well known justice of the peace, have been chosen as judges for the popularity contest to select the Queen of Coshocton's first Style Show, which opens Tuesday evening, September 14 at 7 o'clock. The contest closes this evening at 8 o'clock and at that time all votes that have been cast will be turned over to the judges who will give an absolutely impartial count.
Announcement of the winner will be made in Sunday Morning's Tribune.

This will give the young woman, who by the votes of the people is selected to be Queen of the Style Show, ample time to choose her four maids of honor, who will attend her in the coronation ceremony, which is to be one of the big features of the opening night of the show.

Queen Heads Parade.

Accompanied by her maids, the Queen will ride at the head of the parade in an automobile decorated in a manner becoming the honored position she holds. Returning from the parade the coronation ceremony will take place on the balcony of the Park hotel.

Simultaneously with the unveiling of the store windows, she will be crowned and pronounced Queen of the Style Show. At this time also, the presentation of the silver loving cup, which is given by the business men of the city as a memento of the honor thus bestowed upon her, will be made.
Upon it will be engraved her name and the circumstances under which it was won.

Stores Close Early.

By unanimous consent, all the stores of the city will close their doors at 4:30, an hour earlier than usual, on Tuesday evening. This will give time to give the finishing touches to decorations and also give the clerks plenty of time to prepare for the grand opening at 7 o'clock. While all the stores will be open and special features are being arranged for the entertainment of their guests, no goods will be sold on that night.

Work of Adjusting Tax Differences Completed

The board of complaints finished its work Friday afternoon and adjourned. A report has been made to the county auditor which will be referred to the tax commissioner and later made public.
The board is composed of George Smith, Coshocton; John Lorenz, Crawford township; and C. B. Walker, Bedford township.

It has been in session for the past several weeks passing upon complaints which followed the boosting of property valuations in parts of the county.

Conrad Home Damaged By Small Blaze

Damage to the amount of $200, covered by insurance, was caused by fire presumed to be due to spontaneous combustion of some clothes and bedding in an upstairs store-room in the rear of the home of E. F. Conrad, at 1033 Orchard street, about noon Friday.

Thursday noon, Edward, the little three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad, set fire to some curtains and blankets also were ignited. Mrs. Conrad after extinguishing the blaze, placed the blankets in a store room. It is thought that the blankets were smoldering or that spontaneous combustion resulted in the blankets being ignited again Friday, as the room was close.

The blaze was discovered by Mr. Conrad and William Siegrist as they were driving up Eleventh street in an auto. Smoke was issuing from the windows. The fire department was called and the blaze extinguished with little trouble. The clothes and bedding were burned and the contents of an adjoining bedroom were also somewhat damaged.

DONEY IN TWIN CITIES

Detective Charles Doney, who killed James Cavanaugh and was himself wounded in the hip in a gun fight at Coshocton several weeks ago, was in Dennison Wednesday evening and Thursday.

Mr. Doney said he was feeling fairly well again. He told a friend that he was very sorry that he killed Cavanaugh, but that it was done in a fight for his life.

Doney was in the Twin Cities with the Panhandle pay car which he, with several other detectives, guards over night in the Dennison yards.—Urichsville Chronicle

Local Board Will Remain In Authority

When it was learned that enough signatures had been secured to assure a referendum vote on the McDermott Liquor License law at the November election, the meeting that was to have been held at New Philadelphia to select the license commissioners for this district, including, Tuscarawas, Holmes and Coshocton counties, was called off.

As a result of this J. B. Manner and R. M. Temple, local commissioners, will hold their office until after the November election. Applications for new licenses must be filed with the old board by September 15 but the licenses will not be issued until after the election.

Clark Funeral Held Sunday

Funeral services for Mrs. Catharine Clark, who was found dead in her home near Cambridge, Tuesday, will be held at St.
Herman, Guernsey county, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.
Rev. W. H. McCormick, assisted by Rev. J. T. Campbell, her former pastor and Rev. McFarland, of Cambridge, will be in charge of the services. David and Joseph Clark, two sons, of Albion, and N. M. arrived Friday to attend the services. James Clark, of the Plainfield road, is also a son.
The body was buried from the home of a son, S. C. Clark in Kim-bolton, Thursday, but the funeral services were delayed until the arrival of the sons and other relatives.

MAY GET SHARE OF BIG ORDER

Local Concerns Interested In Contract For Manufac- turing Of Shells

MARIETTA PLANT MAY SUB-CONTRACT

New Machinery Would Have To Be Installed In Local Plants To Fill Order

It is possible that local industries may get a share of the business incident to the supplying of the French government with ammunition. Negotiations are now pending which may result in two local industries sub-contracting to manufacture shells, a Marietta concern having an unexpired option on the contract for an enormous war order. Representatives of two local industries were in Marietta several days ago negotiating with heads of the concern which has an option of the big contract.

New Machinery Needed

It is said that the local concerns will take on the work if the Marietta concern can see its way clear to take care of the entire contract.
According to a presumably authentic report, the order is of such magnitude that the Marietta concern is facing a problem of filling it even by sub-contracting with many firms throughout this section of the country.

There is no concern in the county which could manufacture the shells without purchasing additional expensive machinery but it is understood that the share of the business received here would prove profitable enough to justify the local concerns in going to this expense. Should the Marietta company see its way clear to contract for the furnishing of the shells, the two local concerns would receive shares of the work which would enable them to work to their full capacity indefinitely.

Beauties Are Disappointed

Columbus, O., Sept. 10.—Probe of the methods of the American Art Film Co. of Columbus in staring a beauty contest throughout Ohio, in which they promised free trips to the Panama-Pacific exposition to six young women who won in the contest, has been postponed by inspector William B.
Robinson of the postoffice department, until he has conferred with District Attorney Bolin, who is expected to return from Washington, D. C., late Friday.

While the charges against the methods employed by the company as complained of by the six young women, seem to warrant a thorough investigation of the entire affair, Inspector Robinson is of the opinion that unless further evidence can be produced the young women have no case against the motion picture company.

The contest was originally staged by the American Art Film Co., which later went to the wall.
Charles Dowerman, William Mackey and others interested in the matter, took over the project after the company's failure. They assert that certain checks deposited by the company to guarantee the fulfillment of the agreement, were found to be worthless later, and for that reason they were financially unable to pay the expenses of the trip for the six winning beauties.

The Art Film Co. got no money from the girls, nor from any other persons, in return for the trip.
The company expected that from the advertising by means of its "beauty contest" it would make some money by selling tickets for its trip. But the expected crowd of excursionists did not come, so there was not enough money to send away the winners.

GOOD PROFITS ARE REALIZED

Is the chicken business a profitable one?
William Roller, of Bacon, Linton twp., believes it is when he can make corn which otherwise would bring him only from 55 to 65 cents a bushel, net him a profit of 85 a bushel, when sold to his chickens.

Since the first of last January, Mr. Roller has kept close account of the amount of corn fed his flock of 20 white Leghorn hens and the number of eggs they produced. He says he has given the hens free access to the corn, feeding them nothing else. They have laid steady-ly all summer and while he has sold the eggs at ordinary market prices, he has the figures to show that the eggs produced as a result of the corn diet, have made the corn worth $8 a bushel.

Italian Tries to Suicide

Charles Seagratt, 35, an Italian residing in Newcomerstown and at present held in the Tuscarawas county jail on a charge of murder, had practically recovered Friday from the effects of self indicted injuries sustained in an attempt to commit suicide late Wednesday night.

Seagratt had sharpened a piece of stick with a fragment of broken glass and was trying to cut his throat with the stick when he was discovered by Sheriff Doney. He will be arraigned at once on an affidavit of lunacy or placed under guard.

Seagratt was arrested in Newcomerstown several months ago for the murder of another Italian who was stabbed to death several years ago. The crime was committed at Newcomerstown and was the result of a quarrel over a woman.
Seagratt fled and evaded arrest until he returned to Newcomerstown last summer.

Factory May Locate Here

Negotiations are now pending which may result in a new industry coming to Coshocton sometime within the next year. The company, which is engaged in the manufacture of carpet sweepers and accessories, is operating a plant in a nearby city and, Thursday, heads of the concern were in consultation with local men who are interested in the plan to have the factory move to Coshocton.

Dr. D. R. McCurdy, of the board of trade, said last night that there is nothing definite in the prospect as yet and that he had to learn what might be the outcome.

VACATION ENDED BY OLD BELL

Registration Day Sees 1750 Pupils Registered In Pub- lic Schools Here

RECORDS BROKEN; MORE EXPECTED

Three Hundred Enrolled In High School — Regular Classes Open Monday

When the old bell that for so many years has summoned the city's youths to school, sounded from its new place in the Chestnut street building, Friday, vacation days were over for the boys and girls.

Friday was official registration day and 1750 students were signed up for courses in the grades and high school. Something over 300 were registered in the high school alone. It is thought that this number will be increased with the regular opening of classes Monday and the school attendance this year will exceed that of any previous year.

After registering Friday pupils were given their book slips and the busiest places in the city during the afternoon were the book stores, where children fairly swarmed to be waited on.

Bodies of Girl And Man Found

Friday at noon the body of Margaret Lillybridge, 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A.
Lillybridge, of West First avenue, Columbus, who was drowned when she fell from the West Town bridge Tuesday morning was found, and a short time afterwards the body of Harry Lane, aged 28, who lost his life in an attempt to rescue the body of the little girl, was found.

The Lillybridge family formerly lived in Coshocton and Mrs. Sarah Wisnburg and Miss Florence Wisnburg, grandmother and aunt of the little girl, of Sixth street, who left for Columbus immediately upon hearing of the accident, were present when the body was found.

The body of the little Lilly-bridge girl was discovered in a clump of bushes near the Dublin avenue bridge over the Olentangy river by Seagrave Co. employees who were going out that way to test a new motor. That was at 11:45. They had no sooner called the police when word came in that the body of a man had been found in the Scioto river at Franklin furnace, which is just below Mound street. This body proved to be that of the unidentified man who jumped off the ledge of the West Town street bridge early Tuesday morning.

Lane's body was discovered by Detective Frank Mahoney and a newspaper reporter while they were on their way to the scene where the other two bodies had been located. Lane had behind a wife and a week old son. The bodies were taken to the Regan home, where they were prepared for burial. The funerals will be held in Columbus today.

TWO INJURED.

East bound Pennsylvania train No. 18, due here at 11:40 o'clock struck a wagon and injured the two occupants, a man and woman who were taken to Urichsville where they were attended by Dr. Houghes. The accident occurred between Lock 17 and Urichsville at noon Friday.

Two Contracts Are Awarded by the School Board

Hill Coal Yard Company Lands A Contract For Furnishing Coal to Schools--New Lockers Will be In- stalled in Gymnasium at Central School Building.

The contract for the furnishing of the coal for the Coshocton public schools was awarded by the board of education last night to the Hill Coal Yard Company at their bid of 9 1/4 cents a bushel for lump, and 8 1/4 cents per bushel for three-quarter coal.
Seven other bids were received, the Hill Coal Yard company being low bidder. It is estimated that practically 20,000 bushels of coal will be required this year so that the contract awarded amounts to from $1650 to $1850.

The Bids.

Bidder	Lump	Three-quarter
	cts.	cts.
M. S. Wolford	10.	9.
John Williams	9.25	8.5
John Hall	9.65	9.15
W. B. Miller (Good)	9.88	9.28
Morgan Run	9.8	9.
Hills Coal Yard Co.	9.25	8.75
William J. Clough	10.
P. C. Shipp	10.	9.6
Fred Bentumiller	9.8	9.4

Locker Contract.

The contract for the purchasing and installation of 180 steel lockers for the high school gymnasium was awarded to the Van Dorn Iron Company, of Cleveland, at their bid of $659.25. This price averaged $3.66 per locker which was lower on the style selected than the bid of the Moeschl-Edwards Corrugated Iron company, of Covington, Ky., whose bids were made at an average of $4.07 and $4.75 per locker on two styles which are considered by the board.

The new lockers are each to be one foot square and five feet high.
They are made with mesh doors so that free ventilation is permitted thus preventing dampness of clothes and uniforms. They will be fitted with Yale and Townsend key locks. It is expected that they will be installed and ready for use by the end of the month.

Other matters of routine business occupied the attention of the board during the remainder of the meeting which was held in the Central high school building.

Aged Painter Seriously Injured As Automobile Passes Over His Body

It was said last night that Valentine Wilhelm, aged 70, painter, of Adams street, who was injured Friday noon when his auto passed over his body, would recover unless unforeseen complications ensue. For a time, it was feared his injuries would prove fatal. He is now at the City hospital where he is suffering from a broken shoulder blade, two fractured ribs on the left side, a fractured breast-bone and internal injuries.

Wilhelm had one of the rear wheels of the auto jacked up and was doing repair work on the car.
He had started the engine and had gone back of the car to remove the jack when in some unknown manner the gears dropped into the reverse and the car moved backward knocking Wilhelm down and passing over his chest.

Stops Car.

Wilhelm managed to grasp the side of the car and pull himself up so that he was able to throw off the power just before the machine crashed into the porch and stopped. Members of the family, hearing the crash, rushed to the door and found Wilhelm clinging to the side of his car. He was helped to the porch where he sat down and waited until Dr. Lear arrived. He was then taken to the City hospital.

Wilhelm had recently been convalescing from a serious illness and had not yet fully recovered his usual strength. In view of his weakened condition, it can not definitely be said what the outcome of his injuries may be.

Dresden Man Saloon Is Wants Child Entered by Burglars

Claiming that he is able to provide a better home for his child than it now has, and that its mother had practically abandoned it, Leroy D. Bainter, of Dresden, has started action in common pleas court at New Philadelphia to gain possession of the child from his divorced wife Melva M. Bainter, residing in Sugarcreek.

Common pleas court in April, 1913, granted Mrs. Bainter a divorce from the plaintiff and awarded the custody of the child to the mother.

Bainter says he has good reasons why the court's order should be modified. He claims that the child will never know its father or grandfather, Dr. H. H. Bainter, formerly of Sugarcreek, and that he cannot see the child because of the hatred and hostility of the persons who now have charge of the child.

TAKES POSITION

Miss Pauline Smith has accepted a position on the editorial staff of the Times-Age filling the vacancy created by the resignation of Russell Speckman who will re-enter Michigan University within a short time.

Unknown burglars entered the Darling and Wills saloon on Main street some time Thursday night and made off with $5 in cash and several bottles of liquor but overlooked $15 in another register.
The thieves entered the saloon through a rear window and the loss was not discovered until early Friday by Ernest Scherrer, bartender. The police had obtained no clue at a late hour Friday.

Frock Awarded Coal Contract

Edgar W. Frock has been awarded the contract for the furnishing of the coal used by the city water works the coming year.
The contract price is $1.62 1/2 per ton, delivered at the pumping station. Mr. Frock had the contract last year and it is said that the coal furnished was satisfactory.
It requires about 36 tons a week or almost 2000 tons per year to run the pumping station.

Ohio Plants Get Share Of War Business

Cleveland, O., Sept. 9.—Cleveland industries will enter a new field of war munitions manufacture as a result of a colossal contract closed in New York yesterday by a group of capitalists from this city and Canton, for making

3,000,000 rifles for the Russian army. Eighty million dollars is the price the Russian munitions commission in America has contracted to pay for the rifles. Practically all of that will be distributed among a number of factories in Cleveland, Canton, Alliance and Salem. The closing of the rifle order has been in abeyance while the formation of a syndicate of manufacturers hung fire during the last two weeks. Difficulties in securing proper machinery, factory space and equipment for handling, land, so numerous parts will be the order and the affiliation of a series of plants under a holding company delayed the deal. Last night, however, word was received here that final obstacles had been overcome. Plans are being made to start work on the sixty or more parts of the rifle in the various local plants immediately. Complete guns cannot be manufactured in any one plant or in the group of plants in Cleveland, so numerous parts will be distributed in their manufacture over a wide area. The contract calls for the first delivery of between 300,000 and 500,000 complete rifles within six months. The contract calls for delivery of 3,000,000 rifles of the Mauser type, 1893 model, within 20 months. The contract price for the lot is $27.50 per rifle, but

Arrests Follow Big Celebration

Mrs. Louisa Spicer and David Hines, an old soldier, pleaded guilty to charges of intoxication when arraigned before the mayor Thursday morning and each was fined $1 and costs by the mayor. Hilda Tidball and Charles Sueaks were also arraigned on charges of intoxication and disorderly conduct and were each assessed $5 and costs. The arrests were the result of a raid made by the police following complaints that a rough-house was in progress at the Spicer home at a late hour Wednesday night. Mrs. J. B. Zook, of Warsaw, paid Speaks' fine and he was released.

Miss Tidball's father made arrangements to pay her fine, but the mayor said last night that inasmuch as the township trustees were making arrangements to take the girl to the infirmary this morning, that in case this was done, the fine would not be ordered paid.

Perils of the Stenographer.
Boston, Sept. 10.—At a meeting of the Women's Household association, Mrs. Charlotte Smith, president, demonstrated that stenographers be kept in wire cages with all work. Mrs. Smith said: "After assessment of a stenographer, unless the cage the employer takes her, she is a young girl can't do anything but
be a stenographer. These old stenographers take advantage of it. It's no insult. I would have a law passed that no man have a female stenographer in his office without a wire cage and naming her." Mrs. Pratt, W. thereafter stated that if wives give their husbands a little more affection, wire cages will not be necessary.

M. A. C. clan, representing the state, met in session at Providence Church, in this city, near the site of the old McAlister fort. They are descendants of the McAlister brothers who came here from Virginia and settled in 1782.

Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of the speaker of the house, whose mother was a McAlister, was present and addressed the assembly.
Caldwell McAlister of this county, was elected chairman of the clan and P. T.
A. Forgy of Lexington was made secretary.

Perils of the Stenographer.
Boston, Sept. 10.—At a meeting of the Women's Household association, Mrs. Charlotte Smith, president, demonstrated that stenographers be kept in wire cages with
all work. Mrs. Smith said: "After as-essment of a stenographer, unless the
cage the employer takes her, she is
a young girl can't do anything but
be a stenographer. These old stenographers take advantage of it. It's no insult. I would have a law passed that
no man have a female stenographer
in his office without a wire cage and
naming her." Mrs. Pratt, W. there-
after stated that if wives give their hus-
bands a little more affection, wire
cages will not be necessary.

Pretty Hats Admired At Opening.

That it takes more than excessive heat to keep women shoppers from attending the fall millinery openings and admiring the new creations being fashioned for their approval, was demonstrated by the large crowds which flocked to the millinery store of Mrs. J. R. Robertson, in response to her announcement of her first showing of fall hats on Friday and Saturday.

And those who attended were well rewarded, for only to look at the exquisite array of fashionable head wear that Mrs. Robertson has assembled, was a pleasure in itself. The styles for this fall stamped by Dame Fashion as "the thing," are prettier and more generally becoming than for many seasons past and include such a variety of shapes and sizes that a choice can be readily made by the most exacting. Mrs. Robertson is including in her first display a complete line of all the newest models.

THIEVES ABDUCT RED-GARBED FLEAS

Bible Also Included in Plunder Taken From Home With Martial Insects.

Hartford, Conn.—It was curious and unusual burglars who ransacked the curio room in Herbert Randall's home, bringing forth fruits more for repentance he thinks they will return an old Bible they took, whatever disposition they may make of two red-garbed fleas they included in their booty. The Bible was printed in Greek, and was more than a century old. The fleas were considerably younger—and dead.

"The fleas were dressed in red uniforms," said Mr. Randall. "I bought them from an old lady in Seattle who made a living dressing fleas in martial array. They reposed in little boxes against a background of white cotton, and I often observed them through a microscope. Their martial spirit had long since fled, but I hope they come to life and take vengeance on the thieves."

When no one was at home two men were seen to enter Mr. Randall's house at noon and leave an hour later. They carefully piloted up a quantity of silver, but left it intact. They likewise pilfered a gold and pearl necklace and numerous gold pins. They made their selection almost entirely from antiquities and curios, of which Mr. Randall has a large collection. The only modern article they took was a new suit of clothes.

One of the most valuable objects missing is an antique Roman gold pin, which was presented to Mr. Randall in Venice by an Italian woman of rank. They removed and left behind a topaz stone which was set in the pin. Many rare Greek coins, a cameo pin bought in Scotland, a unique diamond pin and an old gold watch are among the missing articles. Mr. Randall places his loss at $1,000.

THEY "GUY" HIS TIN HAT

Whiting Built It Himself, for Himself to Wear on His Own Head, So It's His Own Affair.

Bangor, Me.—William H. Whiting of Jonesport, a seacoast village town in Washington county, doesn't care if he is caught out in the rain while wearing his new hat. It is made of tin and has a band of copper. In general build and dimensions it conforms to the 1915 model worn by fashionable young men. Mr. Whiting concluded that straw was too flimsy, wool too hot, and Panama too costly, so he went to his own tinshop and from the thinnest tin that he could find built for himself this novel hat. It shines gladly in the sunlight of the morning, reflects the glory of the sunset, and echoes musically in the rain.

The only think about it that makes Whiting any way nervous is that some day it may attract a bolt of lightning. People "guy" the hat, but Whiting merely observes that it's his own hat.

COWS TRAVEL FAR TO MOURN

Wander Seven Miles to Spot Where Calves Were Killed in Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia.—Employees at the cattle pens at Paoli freight station were puzzled the other day when they found two stray cows near the pens when they reported for work. The cows were lowing and wouldn't be driven away.

When F. H. Bernheisel, a cattle dealer of Newcom square, arrived, he said that the cows were the mothers of two calves found trampled dead when a car containing a herd consigned to him was unloaded at Paoli. The calves were buried soon after the unloading and Bernheisel's employees drove the herd to his farm.

The two mother cows got away from the pasture during the night and made the seven-mile journey to their "babies" at Paoli in darkness.

HONEST INSPECTOR NOT ENCOURAGED

Local Juries Won't Convict, Says Mrs. Florence Kelley.

SHE WANTS A FEDERAL LAW.

Child labor laws will not be enforced until there is a federal law which the government will enforce. So Mrs. Florence Kelley told the Eleventh Annual Conference on Child Labor at its recent San Francisco meeting. During her wide and varied experience Mrs. Kelley has accumulated many examples of why a state child labor law can never be properly enforced and why the federal government must take a hand in it.

"After a state child labor law is on the statute books the difficulties of the inspectors are only a part of the obstacles that confront the state in getting that law enforced. If an inspector works very hard he is commonly removed, that is, if he works hard and honestly and ably. I have watched inspectors working hard, honestly and ably being removed for thirty-three years. One who does not work hard and ably and honestly will probably be removed anyhow when the politics of the state changes."

"While the inspector is working hard, ably and honestly it is exceedingly difficult to get a law enforced, if prosecution is required, because local magistrates are usually reluctant to enforce it and local juries to uphold it. Some years ago we were prosecuting in Chicago a certain sweater who had employed sixteen girls illegally. A dozen witnesses were subpoenaed, and they all swore cheerfully that the law had been kept, although they knew that they had been working illegally that day."

"The justice thought it a merry jest that we could not get warrants against those perjured witnesses. He said, 'If I were going to choke my office up with perjury suits against witnesses in minor cases we would not get any business done,' so those perjured witnesses went free."

As a further illustration Mrs. Kelley spoke of the difficulty the New York State Department of Labor has experienced in the past two years in prosecuting canners. The trouble was not with perjured witnesses there, but with local juries. The local juries would not convict because most of them were farmers who sell their goods to the canneries and had no idea of participating in the punishment of their customers. "That condition is so widespread throughout New York, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware," said Mrs. Kelley, "that there is no present hope of enforcing the child labor law in the canneries of those states with local juries in local courts."

"I do not share the millennial belief that we shall in any near future have our laws obeyed by the agreement of employers and employees in industries in which the employees are unorganized. Laws are obeyed only where there are powerful organizations of workers to compel obedience. But where there is a body of helpless aliens, as in most sweatshop industries, or in remote villages far from the searchlight it will take a great deal of evidence to convince me that all employers will voluntarily obey the child labor law. Our immediate need is the passage of a federal child labor law to enable the federal government to enforce the law."

DR. FREDERICK BLANKNER, THE DISTINGUISHED SPECIALIST ARRESTED

Indicted, Pleads Guilty and is Sentenced to Serve Seven Days in Room No. 22, Park Hotel Until Saturday, September 18th.

This is the peoples' lining. All know that Dr. Blankner was arrested some days ago and then arrested again several times by one well known Bert Ahnack on the same charge of not having a license from the State Dental Board. People were very sorry to learn of the doctor's unpleasantness but are rejoiced that he remained firm at his post of duty.

He is now arrested by the people and is indicted as a benefactor to suffering humanity. He is charged as being a master of his specialty, and of giving every one a square deal. From all parts of Coshocton county telephone messages have been received requesting that the Doctor extend his visit one week longer. Since the people have been pleased to sentence him for another week's service, he pleads guilty to all the charges made by the people.

Three weeks ago when the doctor came to Coshocton he did so by the request of many of our people as in the adjoining counties he had many patients from this vicinity. It is well known that Dr. Blankner treats all kinds of complicated chronic diseases, and incidental to his practice along these lines he finds many people who are afflicted with diseased teeth that have to be extracted as part of the treatment, and when they learn that Dr. Blankner is an expert and can extract them without pain they gladly want it done. Naturally people will advertise his work, and so well it is received that people come for miles around to meet him in a heart to heart talk concerning all kinds of ailments as well as to have their teeth extracted without pain.

Mr. B. DeVault, of Clemen's Corners made a little journey and had out 13 badly diseased teeth that for years he had wanted out and said that he surely would send lots of people to room No. 22, from that section. Mrs. W. L. Roller, R. R. No. 4, had out 18; Mrs. Saul Stockum, West Lafayette, had out 9; Mr. Geo. Frank, R. R. West Lafayette, had out 21; Mrs. C. M. Osborn, R. R. No. 3, Newcomerstown, had out 7, and was more than rejoiced with the splendid work. Mr. M. Carpenter, New Castle, had out 8; Mrs. Finley, Conesville, R. R. No. 1, had out 21.

Many more could be mentioned but this is enough. You must remember that the very hardest cases come to Dr. Blankner. People who for years have suffered with diseased teeth. The most nervous people. People with heart troubles of all kinds. It is the same way with chronic ailments. People who for years have suffered all kinds of misery and most of a necessity, establish success where nothing but failures have marked their efforts. Dr. Blankner makes no unreasonable claims but has phenomenal success along the lines of his work, and any who may be afflicted will be acting wisely to make a little journey to Room No. 22 and meet the doctor face to face in an honest confidential talk.

THE GUARANTY OF PEACE
Professor Alvin S. Johnson, of Cornell university, takes a view of the outcome of the war that differs from that of many of his professorial contemporaries. The latter see a guaranty of peace only in a decisive victory for one side or the other. Professor Johnson thinks, on the contrary, that lack of decisive victory is likely to insure peace rather than to lead to a future war. In the New Republic he says that, however the present war may end, it "will leave no nation gloating over easy victory." He continues:

Nor will the present war print disgrace upon the mind of any nation. All the chronicles of the world can transmit to posterity only a tithe of the tales of heroism from any one of the warring nations. After the war the nations that have fared worst will, at any rate, have the consolation of the record of a gallant fight; and the nations nearest approximating the state of victors will accord generous recognition to the bravery of their foes. The formal terms of peace may leave open the door to future strife; but the underlying spirit of the people, something vastly more significant in the long run, is not circumscribed by written conventions. What if the coming peace shall be inconclusive? All the more probability that it will be a lasting peace.

In other words, the people of the nations at war will emerge from the conflict, whether victor or vanquished, with so profound a respect for the bravery and efficiency of their foes that war will be extremely improbable as long as that respect persists. None of the combatants will have an exaggerated idea of its own prowess or a false notion of the weakness of its enemy. There will be no over-estimating one and under-estimating the other.

This sounds plausible, of course. Unfortunately, though, each combatant will begin immediately to examine and analyze its own weaknesses in armaments or organization and its enemy's strength. Then each will begin to correct the faults and errors disclosed, and repair them. And that done, over and over again, the old feeling of national superiority, of national invincibility, will return. Then peace will lose the security of mutual respect and admiration.

However, everything is speculation. But speculation is not altogether in vain. We need to look ahead. The possibilities of the outcome are innumerable. If speculation will prepare us, in a measure, for those that develop it will at least have done us no harm.

THE POSTAL SYSTEM
One hundred and forty years ago Postmaster Benjamin Franklin took over the private mail system which had undertaken the delivery of letters in this country, and made it a government institution. The system then consisted of thirty postoffices, nine post riders and a slow schooner line to Atlantic coast points.

BEFORE AND AFTER
By Walt Mason

"To gain a smile from your sunny eyes, I'd slay a dragon," the lover cries. "I'd dip the sun from its ancient bed, I'd scoop the snow from your mountain's head, I'd grab a star from the spangled sky, to light your path as you toddle by. I'd catch a whale, though it's fierce and delectable, and proudly lay it before your feet. Whatever a mortal man can do will be done by me, dear love for you." Oh, the fair maid calls for this tommyrot, and off to the pasha he goes to buy a turban, and the good man says, "You are a man and with I have sentenced you, and your terms for life." The pasha, when a year has passed, may hear the passionate husband groan: "The night I sleep within these doors, you have a list of a thousand chores. There is no rest for a weary soul; you want some water, you want some coal, I should be mowing the discolored lawn, or pulling weeds till the light is gone, or pruning grapes with a barbed knife—a man's a clump when he takes a walk!" Oh, the girl who plans to be happy, beware the man who is born on a cloud!

livery of letters in this country, and made it a government institution. The system then consisted of thirty postoffices, nine post riders and a slow schooner line to Atlantic coast points.

Today there are 56,000 postoffices in the United States postal system, and the department employs 300,000 persons. In the early days when Franklin still had charge of the system nothing was supposed to be carried but letters, although the carriers occasionally took weekly papers and packages as a special favor. As late as 1830 one small leather pouch was large enough to hold all the mail bound south from New York in one day. Today the department makes use of 4,000,000 mail sacks.

Until 1847 there were no postage stamps in general use in the United States. The postal agents collected in cash for each piece of mail matter. This took time and caused so much trouble that, taken together with the uncertainty of the roads, the price of postage was very high and the sending of a letter was an event not infrequently attended with considerable ceremony. At that time it cost about 25 cents to send a letter 400 miles. In 1847 5 and 10-cent stamps were issued. In 1851 the letter rate was fixed at 3 cents, and in 1853 the present 2-cent rate was established. Today over 12,000,000, 000 stamps of all kinds are sold annually. These figures indicate to a certain extent the growth of a government department which has always responded with celerity to the demands of the times.

The citizens of this generation have cause to be satisfied with the general attainments of the postoffice. It has been so organized that the prompt collection and delivery of letters is taken as a matter of course. The extension of the service into rural districts has done as much to bring the farmer into close communication with the business world as anything else, and the facilities for prompt and efficient delivery between large business centers have been developed to a point where the miscarriage of a letter is rare.

The merit system has undoubtedly contributed much to this development, and in late years the introduction of the parcel post and the postal bank has brought the service of the postoffice to the people in a new way. There is yet considerable room for improvement and economy, but on the whole the department has kept close to the progress of the country.—Indianapolis News.

SPAIN AFTER COIN.

Is Alleged to Be Supplying German Submarines With Benzine.

Receiv. France, Sept. 10, in explanation of the activity of German submarines in the Bay of Biscay, the assertion is made by the Petit Gillette, that a steamer registered at Bilbao, Spain, left that port recently with 500 barrels of benzine. Where the cargo was unloaded is unknown, but soon after the steamer left port empty barrels were seen floating on the sea. The newspaper declares the same steamer took fifty barrels of benzine to a submarine at Ciencha de Arreda last June.

Private advices received at Bilbao state that agents have been scouring the north of Spain for gasoline, which has been sent to Bay of Biscay ports.

Nelson O. Nelson, millionaire St. Louis manufacturer, known as the father of the profit-sharing plan, is 71 years old today. Nearly thirty years ago Mr. Nelson put into practice a system of sharing profits with his workmen. In his little shop he made partners of his workers. He has never regretted his move, and now his co-operative companies own factories in St. Louis, Leclaire, Ill., Noblesville, Ind., and Bessemer, Ala., and have branches in many American cities. Wage-earners have received from 10 to 30 percent profits annually on their wages. Then he began profit sharing with customers, with the result that most of the shares in his big company are owned by customers and workmen. He established the co-operative village of Leclaire, Ill. He introduced farmers' co-operative creameries and credit societies and rural industrial education in Georgia and Louisiana. He operates over thirty co-operative grocery stores in New Orleans, to test the working of co-operation in a large city. Mr. Nelson was a small boy when he was taken to America with a band of Norwegian immigrants. He was born in Norway Sept. 11, 1844. He received a brief education in Missouri. At 16 he enlisted in the army, joining a Kansas regiment, and served throughout the Civil War. He read much in medical economy and concluded that the question of just distribution of profits is the most vital in modern life. When he went into business he put his theories to the test. It is in profit-sharing and co-operation between employers and the workers that mutual benefit lies. Mr. Nelson sees the solution of the present economic problem.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Coshocton Citizens Show a Way.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Coshocton citizen says:

Mrs. C. E. Reed, 520 Cemetery St., Coshocton, says: "Whenever I bent over, sharp pains shot through my back and at times I was so dizzy that I could hardly stand. I called in a doctor but he didn't do me any good and I continued to get worse. The kidney secretions were unnatural and caused me a lot of annoyance. I thought I would have to give up my housework. Doan's Kidney Pills procured at the Wimmer-Arnold Co.'s Drug Store, cured me and I haven't had any return of the trouble."

275 PIANO FREE
Or $200 in Cash Divided

A beautiful present to every one who answers this whether right or wrong.

DIRECTIONS.

This puzzle is made up of nine squares in the shape of a cross, and the numerals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9. The trick is to arrange these nine numbers so that when added together they will make 23 in both directions; both lines must add up 23 not only from left to right, but up and down as well. To the person who can do this correctly we will give a beautiful $275 piano free, but in case two, three, or more do it correctly, we will divide $200 in cash among the tying contestants. Simply fill in the above squares with the numbers in their proper order, write your name and address plainly on a separate piece of paper, and bring or mail to us not later than Wednesday, Sept. 15. You will be notified by mail as to the result of the contest.

FOUND—TWO BILLION DOLLARS.

A sure way of solving the problem of the high cost of living is forcefully indicated by Dan Poling in an appeal to the voters of the country. "Have you ever stopped to consider," he says, "what two billion dollars would do toward solving that problem?"

"Do you think that it would help if we could find two billion dollars somewhere?"

"We have found two billion dollars! Two billion dollars worse than lost! In round numbers, the drink bill of the United States represents an investment in body, mind and soul destruction of $91.00 for each family in the country. When we remember that there are unnumbered families that have no drink bill at all, we begin to form a hazy conception of the drinking families of the nation. Liquor money is generally bread money, meat money, shoe money, and money that ought to be spent for clothing. Some stomachs go hungry for bread, some feet go poorly shod, some body goes inadequately clothed, in order that the liquor traffic may gratify the unspeakable appetite it creates for unnecessary strong drink."

DESTROY THE DESTROYER.

In his book, "Man's Value to Society," Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis says: "Statisticians reckon the average man's value at $600 a year. Each worker in wood, iron or brass stands for an engine or industrial plant worth $10,000, producing at 6 per cent. an income of $600. The death of the average workman, therefore, is equivalent to the destruction of a $10,000 mill or engine. The economic loss through the non-productivity of 20,000 drunkards is equal to one Chicago fire, involving $200,000,000."

This does not take into account the cost of the crime and pauperism which 20,000 drunkards entail upon the public, nor the degeneracy of drunkards' offspring which adds enormously to the economic loss through nonproductivity and direct criminality. By the license system this nation is deliberately destroying each year its chief assets. The liquor traffic must go!

OUT OF A JOB.

The cry is sometimes made that if saloons are voted out saloonkeepers will lose their jobs and their families will suffer. Did it ever occur to you, pertinently asks an exchange, that if the saloons are not voted out, hundreds of the patrons of the saloons will lose their jobs and their families will suffer?

When a saloonkeeper puts a man out of a job, he disgraces the man and his family, and unfits him for another job. When prohibition puts a saloonkeeper out of a job, he becomes a more honorable citizen, his family becomes more honorable and the community secures a wealth-producing workman instead of a wealth-destroying workman.

NEW COMMANDMENT.

The voice of science speaks with greater authority than ever before; and the average man is beginning to believe that it is the voice of God speaking to his children. Science, industry, philanthropy, patriotism, religion and common sense are today thundering from a hundred Sinais the divine command: "Thou shalt not use alcohol in any form, neither thou nor thy president, nor thy army, nor thy navy, nor thy physician, nor thy pastor, at the communion table, nor thy teacher, nor thy railroad engineer, nor thy chauffeur, nor anyone who dwells within thy borders."—Rev. Henry Stauffer in Union Signal.

SELLING PASSWORD FOR DRINK.

Surgeon General Evans, speaking in London, not long ago, dealt upon the deplorable condition of drink among women, adding: "For a woman to drink is like selling the password in the field of battle." This is a unique and powerful way of describing the effect of drink, not only on women, but on men. Alas, how many have lost in the battle of life by selling the password of success and happiness for strong drink!—Lillian M. N. Stevens

INJURIOUS WORK OF BEER.

It is just this precious beer which lowers the intellectual capacity and will power of the elements and the souls of people and makes them old before their time; ruins stomach, liver, bowels and brain; brings them into the poorhouse and prison, hospital and asylum, and early puts them under the earth.—Max Gruher, M. D., president Royal Institute of Hygiene, Munich.

SUSCEPTIBLE TO DISEASE.

Liabilities to sickness are greater among drinkers than among abstemious, because alcohol weakens the vitality, lessens the power of resistance, renders the body more susceptible to disease.—Adolf Raab, M. D., Royal Sanitary Commission, Berlin, Germany.

WORK OF ALCOHOL.

"Alcohol does not nourish, but pulls down; does not stimulate, but depresses; does not strengthen, but excites and exhausts."—Dr. Norman Kerr.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Confederate Sergeant Wyatt of the Staunton artillery is sent as a spy to his native county on the Green River by General Jackson.

CHAPTER II—Wyatt meets a mountain trapper named Tom Taylor, with whom he takes to a house beyond Hot Springs.

CHAPTER III—In the house Wyatt and Taylor meet Major Harwood, father of Noreen and an old neighbor of Wyatt, who is sent to bed while the two other men talk. Wyatt becomes suspicious, and finds that Taylor has murdered Harwood and escaped.

CHAPTER IV—Wyatt changes to the U. S. cavalry uniform he has with him, and goes away in the night, running into the hands of Federal cavalry, to whom he identifies himself as Lieutenant Raymond, Third U. S. Cavalry, by means of papers with which he has been provided. Captain Fox sends Harwood's body and follows Taylor's trail.

CHAPTER V—Fox and Wyatt return to Taylor's house, but the latter is unobtainable. Wyatt escapes to the Green River country and goes to Harwood's apparently deserted home.

CHAPTER VI—Wyatt finds Noreen Harwood alone in her home. She does not recognize him, and he introduces himself as Lieutenant Raymond.

CHAPTER VII—Parson Nichols comes to the house and tells Noreen of her father's death.

CHAPTER VIII—Wyatt forces Parson Nichols to confess that he has been sent in advance of Anse Cowan, who proposes to marry Noreen at once, and so quit the land in dispute between the Cowans and Noreen's dead father.

CHAPTER IX—Anse Cowan and his gang arrive and find the preacher bound in a closet. Wyatt and Noreen have concealed themselves in the attic.

CHAPTER X—The Cowan gang ransacks the house but fails to find the hidden couple. Wyatt tells Noreen who he is.

CHAPTER XI—Wyatt and Noreen return to the second floor and await the next move of the gang, forcing the preacher to silence.

CHAPTER XII—Unable to escape while the gang is on the first floor and aware of the danger to Noreen, Wyatt proposes to marry Noreen to protect her from Cowan. She accepts and Wyatt forces the preacher to marry them.

CHAPTER XIII—Cowan's gang is driven off by Federal troops, one of whose officers is the real Lieutenant Raymond. Wyatt is trapped, though Noreen attempts to defend him.

CHAPTER XIV—Wyatt is taken to Lewisburg for trial as a spy.

CHAPTER XV—The camp commandant and Captain Fox visit Wyatt in his cell in the courthouse basement. He refuses to confess in order to inform Noreen of the whereabouts of the building to prepare a way of escape.

CHAPTER XVI—Captain Fox again visits Wyatt, and tells him that Noreen has been sold for life unconditionally, and that Raymond, jealous, is pushing the case against him.

"By G—, it's that d— spy!"

"What!" and the lieutenant took a step forward, only to shrink back as my revolver came to a level.

"Any noise either of you make will be the last sound you'll utter in this world, Lieutenant Raymond. I will trouble you to step around back of the desk—no, the other way; I advise you not to be tricky. Colonel Pickney, sit up in your chair, and put your hands behind you in through the openings in the chair back. Oh, yes you will; Don't be a fool, man! What is this—a hair trigger?"

I never saw any one more thoroughly angry; he would have killed me with the utmost pleasure, and, indeed, for an instant, I expected him to actually make the attempt. But my eyes glared into his, and the man was not insane. Slowly, reluctantly, as though actually forced into the action, his arms were thrust backward into a posture of helplessness. His lips spluttered, but he could not even swear.

"Now, Raymond, take that belt and bind him," I commanded sternly. "Go to it, and be quick. Remember I have a gun in each hand. That's it—now catch the buckle."

Pickney checked with rage to which he dare not give vent, and the hands of the lieutenant shook as though from chill. His face was so white I began to think the fellow had a streak of cowardice in him, but his very fear might save him recklessness. I showed the muzzle of a revolver against his coat.

"Now, this other around his legs, strap him tight to the chair. Very good, indeed, you are learning your trade."

I found the taut leather with one hand.

"That will hold you, colonel, all but your mouth and I hope you have enough sense left to guard that your self, Raymond; and my glance swept the walls of the room. Lastly, I reached for a chair and pulled it close to the desk, and I was ready to strike when the door opened and a man came in.

"Now, this other around his legs, strap him tight to the chair. Very good, indeed, you are learning your trade."

"I did nothing against you," he protested wriggling about to rub plumps of my face. "I had no authority here—" is scarcely likely under all conditions that I will prevent your escape, or attempt to do so. You saved me from a fate worse than death, and were captured while endeavoring to serve me. Surely you did not suppose I had forgotten? You received my message?"

"Yes, and was most thankful for it. I confess I had doubted before."

"I read your thoughts in your face; that was one reason why I wished to reassure you. I could not be ungrateful." She glanced across the room, and began again as though anxious to get upon another topic. "I requested Lieutenant Raymond to interfere in your behalf, and he placed me his word to do so. Less than an hour ago I learned he was exerting his influence with Colonel Pickney against my wishes. I determined to come here in person and learn the truth. Here you may explain, Lieutenant Raymond?"

"The fellow is a self-confessed spy," he asserted hoarsely. "There was nothing I could say to save him."

"Lieutenant, I made no request that you would interpose to save this man from his just fate under military law. My father was a soldier, and I know a soldier's duty. All I asked was that he be sent to Charleston, to the head quarters of this department, where he could have an impartial trial. If you had so advised Colonel Pickney, that would have been done. He would have gladly shifted the responsibility elsewhere. Now the full burden of decision falls on me. I must choose between two duties—my loyalty to the Union or my husband."

Raymond certainly was no more startled than I at this avowal, perhaps less so, for although the words choked in his throat, he managed to give them utterance.

"Your husband! Good God! Do you mean to say you are married to this fellow?"

"I not only mean it," she said calmly, "but I have the proof with me. I tell you the fact merely to justify my action, for I intend to save him if I can. I wish Colonel Pickney to know why I do this—what conditions justify me in so rebellious a course. This man does not deserve death; he was captured while defending me from insult, and he is my husband. I should be unworthy the name of woman if I did not aid his escape."

"She turned to me, her eyes eager. 'Tom, you must do just as I say.'"

CHAPTER XIX.

The Lady Chooses.

She came across toward me, her back to the others, and spoke swiftly yet in a low voice which did not carry to their ears.

"There is only one way possible for you to pass out of this building and through the camp safely. There are guards everywhere, and the orders are very strict; but I think we can go together. I know the countersign—Captain Fox is officer of the day, and trusted me with it. If—if you only had a uniform! Where is the one you wore?"

"My trip through the chimney left that in rags," I answered, impressed by her earnestness, and getting my wits together.

She glanced about the walls of the room, a frown between her eyes.

"Then we must forage from the enemy," with a little nervous laugh. "You would never pass the sentry in the corridor wearing that suit. You will have to take the lieutenant's coat and cap. Be quick about it—and—now you need not be particularly gentle on my account."

"Nor on my own, either—Fox informed me of what he told you."

I was not long about the job, nor did Raymond make any resistance to the exchange forced upon him. I took no chances, binding him with greater care than before, and fitting a rag into his mouth to silence any possible cry for help. Noreen stood close to the door, apparently listening for some noise without, yet occasionally directing her glance toward us anxiously.

"Are you ready?" she asked in a low whisper.

"Yes; but tell me your plan. I need to know what character I am to enact—Raymond?"

"Not at first; not in the hall. That would be useless, as there is a light burning. Listen!" and she grasped my sleeve in both hands in her eagerness to explain. "There is a sentry stationed outside this door—the colonel's orderly, I presume, but fully armed, and two others at the front entrance. These are twenty or thirty feet away, and out of sight from this door. I am not particularly afraid of passing them."

"It's the fellow stationed here?"

Ruling Affects Thousands.

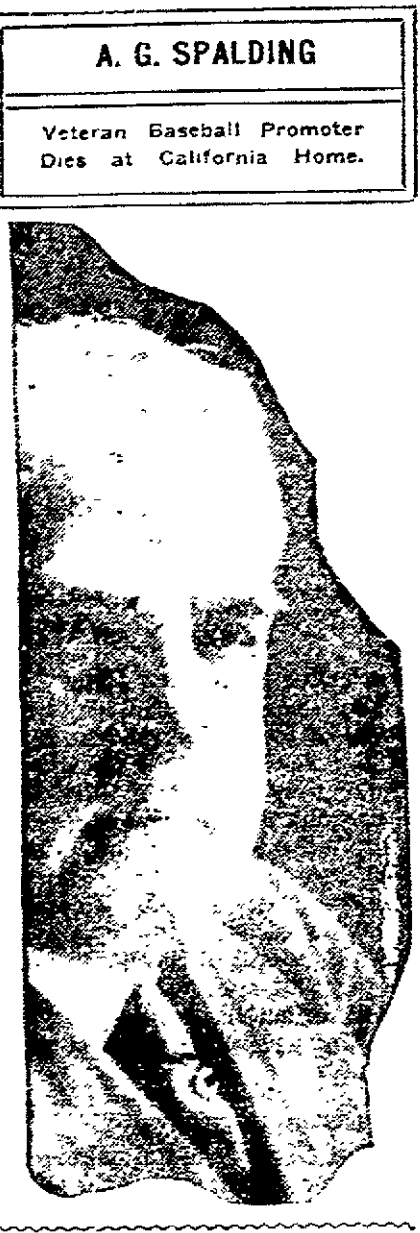

Colonel Pickney, 14—Attorney General Thompson's ruling that the numerical census is to be taken on the basis of the census of 1910, and that the census of 1910 is to be taken on the basis of the census of 1910, is a ruling which will affect thousands of people. It is a ruling which will affect thousands of people. It is a ruling which will affect thousands of people.

Exceed Legal Limitations.

Cincinnati, Sept. 10.—Eleven men, thirteen women and thirteen children in Pennsylvania, who were found to have exceeded the legal limit of 100 in excess of the legal limit, were fined $100 each. The excess was found to be in excess of the legal limit.

Dying of Pellagra.

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 10.—Joseph E. Wind, 60, died at water and lecturer of the University of Urbana, Ill., is dying of pellagra at a sanatorium in Marion. He contracted the disease in Argentina four years ago. He was sent to South America by President Taft to investigate the sheep industry, and spent many months there.

BOSTON WOOL.

Boston, Sept. 10.—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston will say tomorrow:

"There has been a fair movement of wool, although no large individual contracts have been closed during the past week. In most cases there has been more noticeable since the opening of the London market, although the prices made at the opening of the current series had been largely discounted. The maintenance of firm prices on the best fine wools has been doubtless the most encouraging phase of the London and Brisbane markets to the holders of fine wools. Values locally are without material change."

Deny German Contention.

London, Sept. 10.—In view of the statement contained in the German press to the effect that the White Star of Liverpool had been the previous day, and would be, the ship was ordered to leave the harbor. Neither the White Star nor any of her officers saw the submarine, which was stated to have been sighted by the British navy.

Cars Resume Schedules.

At New York, Sept. 10.—Cars of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company, which had been suspended since the strike, resumed their regular schedules today.

Columbus Fire Chief Dies.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 10.—Charles J. Lacey, 60, fire chief of Columbus, died after a comparatively long illness. He was a native of Ireland and had been in the service of the city for many years.

May Be Dropped For Hazing.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels received a report from the acting superintendent of the naval academy at Annapolis, recommending the dismissal from the academy of six or seven midshipmen for hazing, or for giving false testimony in the hazing investigation just completed. Although Secretary Daniels refused to disclose the names of the boys, he has notified them of the findings of the board of inquiry and has offered them an opportunity to explain.

Angle-French Financiers Arrive.

New York, Sept. 10.—The six Anglo-French financiers who are to discuss the best means for meeting the existing foreign exchange situation, arrived here today. The men are to represent England and France nominally, but in reality all the allied countries now at war. A conference will be held with Pierpont Morgan this afternoon. A loan of $500,000,000 or more is desired.
